Symposium 2018
Speakers...

DR. EGAN BROCKHOFF, DVM
Prairie Swine Health Services
Red Deer, AB
egan@prairieswinehealth.com

Dr. Egan Brockhoff is a strong advocate of agriculture and agribusiness. He is a graduate of the Western College of Veterinary Medicine at the University of Saskatchewan. His family operates a third-generation mixed farm in central Alberta.

He is the President and a practicing veterinarian with Prairie Swine Health Services in Red Deer, AB and Steinbach, MB. In 2010 he began providing consulting services in Asia focusing on veterinary training, infection prevention and control and enhancing biosecurity capacity.

His passion for agriculture and supporting farmers and agribusiness brought him to the Canadian Pork Council in 2014 where he joined the national stage as the Veterinary Counselor for the Canadian Pork Council.

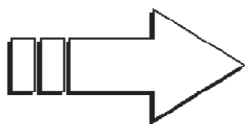

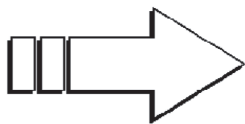

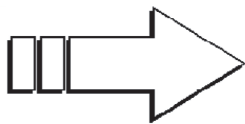

AUDREY CAMERON, B.S.A. (Agronomy)
Canadian Pork Council
Ottawa, ON
cameron@cpc-ccp.com

Audrey completed her Bachelor degree in Agronomy, with a major in Animal Sciences at Laval University in 2008. She later moved to Edmonton, Alberta to do a master's degree in swine reproduction.

In 2011, she began her professional career with Alberta Pork in Edmonton as Provincial Coordinator for the CQA program, animal welfare and biosecurity files.

Audrey joined the Canadian Pork Council in 2014 as National Food Safety and Animal Care Programs Manager and is developing the Canadian Pork Excellence Platform with multiple industry stakeholders.

Symposium 2018 Speakers

VALERIE DUTTLINGER
Swine Management Services
Fremont, NE
Valerie.Duttlinger@swinems.com

Valerie grew up on a farrow to finish seedstock farm near Santa Claus, Indiana and attended Purdue University where her focus was Animal Science.

Upon graduation she returned to the family farm where she was part of the operation until June 2016 when she took her current position as Production Analyst with Swine Management Services in Fremont, Nebraska.

Valerie has traveled throughout the country and in Asia working on farms with producers in many capacities from production training, employee management, and data analysis.

Valerie and her husband Ben still reside near Santa Claus with their two sons, Blake and Jace. Valerie enjoys working with producers and their teams to continue to improve performance and efficiency doing what is right for the pigs and the people.

BRANDON C. FIELDS, BS (Meat Science)
Pig Improvement Company (PIC)
Hendersonville, TN
Brandon.Fields@genusplc.com

Brandon graduated from Purdue University in 1996 with an Animal Science degree and special emphasis in meat science.

In 1997 he joined PIC as a Pork Chain Specialist, focusing on in-plant data collection. He soon expanded his role to include technical services to the integrator and packer.

Today, Brandon is PIC's Manager of Applied Meat Science. He spends his time working with key integrated accounts around the globe to improve hog marketing strategies for maximum profitability, improvements in animal welfare from farm through plant, and in-plant operational challenges that affect both efficiencies and meat quality.

Symposium 2018 Speakers

JUDY HODGE, BSc, DVM, MPH, DACVPM
Swine Health Professionals (SHP)
Steinbach, MB
jhodge@shpswine.com

Judy joined SHP in 2017 focussing on producer education and on-farm research.

She graduated from the Western College of Veterinary Medicine in 2008 then worked two years in Dauphin, MB with livestock and companion animals in India with Global Vets and Uganda with Veterinarians without Borders.

She completed a Master of Public Health at New York University in 2012, working in emerging zoonotic disease research and global health programs. Judy returned to Canada in 2013 and co-founded Katrime Integrated Health contributing work on pandemic H1N1 influenza virus and the human-medicine versus agriculture drivers of antimicrobial resistance.

In 2014, she was a Foreign Animal Disease Veterinarian with the CFIA during the outbreak of Highly Pathogenic Avian Influenza and in 2015 moved to the One Health Operations as a vet with the Office of the Chief Veterinarian in Manitoba creating zoonotic disease management policies for anthrax and rabies.

TRISH HYSHKA
Sunterra Farms Ltd.
Acme, AB
trish.hyshka@sunterra.ca

Trish is a Human Resource Manager for Sunterra Farms Ltd. in Acme, AB and worked for Sunterra for 24 years. She started her career as a stockperson in the Nucleus Farm of the company which was then known as Pig Improvement Canada.

Trish has done many different jobs within Sunterra from Farm Manager, Production Training Manager, Payroll Manager and then finally as HR Manager. She looks after 100+ employees in the Farms division of Sunterra and is involved in leadership training with affiliate companies.

Her biggest reward is watching people progress and grow into bigger roles.

Symposium 2018 Speakers

TRENT LOOS

Agriculture Advocate & Radio Personality
Central Nebraska
www.LoosTales.com

Trent is bridging that gap between rural food producers and their urban consumers. To share the positive story of production agriculture has been his mission since his radio program Loos Tales first aired in 2001 on KMZU in Missouri. Today, 3 million listeners on nearly 100 radio stations in 19 states hear the show every day, along with online listeners worldwide.

Trent travels the globe to unearth stories about the people involved in the many different facets of production agriculture and to ignite a passion for the story of food and the people who raise it.

A pork producer for 30 years, he is a passionate industry advocate and has been involved in Foreign Animal Disease, Trade, and animal welfare policies on provincial, national and international levels.

JOHN PATIENCE, PhD

Iowa State University, Ames, IA USA
jfp@iastate.edu

John is a Professor of Applied Swine Nutrition in the Department of Animal Science at Iowa State University. He earned a B.Sc. (Agr) and M.Sc. degrees from the University of Guelph, and a Ph.D. from Cornell University. For 21 years, he directed the Prairie Swine Centre in Saskatoon after which, in 2008, he accepted his current position at Iowa State.

John's research focuses on supply and utilization of energy in swine diets, but more recently, he has been concentrating on fat and fibre utilization and metabolism. His interest in fibre has turned into an even more recent focus on how diet composition affects factors related to gut health, specifically how the diet can impact the pig's ability to resist or tolerate exposure to certain pathogens. John also consults extensively in pig nutrition and management across North and South America as well as Europe and Asia.

Symposium 2018 Speakers

MURRAY PETTITT, PhD

Prairie Swine Centre, Saskatoon, SK
murray.pettitt@usask.ca

Murray received his BSA in 1986 and M.Sc. in animal reproduction in 1991 from the University of Manitoba. He completed his PhD at the University of Guelph in 1997. As a post-doctoral fellow at the Ontario Veterinary College, he helped develop practical embryo transfer techniques in swine.

In 1999, he joined the Prairie Swine Centre as Assistant Manager, External Research then from 2003-2009 was responsible for leading the program and conducting proprietary contract research on behalf of companies and individuals in the swine industry.

He later joined the Department of Animal and Poultry Science at the U of S managing a research program that is investigating markers of sperm function to identify the fertility potential of boars and bulls.

He returned to Prairie Swine Centre as CEO on June 1, 2018.

BRETT RAMIREZ, PhD

Assistant Professor - ABE
Iowa State University
bramirez@iastate.edu

Brett is a new assistant professor in animal production systems engineering at Iowa State University. His research and extension program encompasses livestock and poultry production systems focussing on housing, natural resources, energy efficiency, animal energetics, environmental control, and precision livestock farming.

The goal of the program is to provide science and solve the problems impacting producers today and develop new technology to meet the animal's needs in an economical and sustainable way for the future. His expertise is in instrumentation and analysis of the key thermal environment and indoor air quality parameters that impact animal performance.

Brett holds a BS and MS from University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, and recently, his PhD from Iowa State University.

Symposium 2018 Speakers

TOM STEIN, DVM, MS, PhD
Maximus Systems
Saint-Huber, QC
tstein@maximus-systems.com

Tom is Senior Strategic Advisor with Maximus Systems who are developing next-generation production management software integrated with Maximus smart controllers. Their goal is to add Artificial Intelligence in the form of machine learning algorithms to help pork producers get insight from all the data.

From 2015 until early 2017, Tom was CEO of DP Techlink, a company that built a mobile animal feed traceability software solution using GPS tracking of feed trucks and feed orders. It is more generally a technology platform for linking transport to traceability, whether the transport is for feed or for live animals.

From 2000 until 2015, he was the founder, CEO, and Chairman of the Board of MetaFarms, Inc. who created a Web-based software system, using a SaaS business and delivery model (software-as-a-service), for all phases of pig production.

BRETT STUART, MBA
Global Agri-Trends
Denver, CO USA
bstuart@globalagritrends.com

Brett is President of Global AgriTrends. The firm was organized in 2006 and provides global agricultural research, analysis and forecasting to a variety of clients around the world. He was formerly the economist for the U.S. Meat Export Federation.

He's conducted numerous research and analysis projects in the global meat trade area as well as advising government representatives on international trade issues.

Mr. Stuart has done on-the-ground meat industry research for clients on six continents. He was raised on a cattle ranch. He received an undergraduate degree in accounting at Utah State University and a Masters in Business Administration degree from the University of Nebraska. He and his wife Amanda live on a small farm near Preston, Idaho with their five children.

Symposium 2018 Speakers

RYAN TENBERGEN, DVM, MSc
Demeter Services Veterinaires Inc.
Levis, QC
rtenbergen@demetersv.com

Ryan grew up in Ingersoll, Ontario. He attended the University of Guelph completing a Bachelor of Science degree in animal biology and Master of Science degree in swine health management, followed by graduation from the Ontario Veterinary College in 2016.

With a strong interest and background in research, Ryan has authored and co-authored scientific papers in the areas of swine disease and management and delivered oral presentations at scientific conferences and swine production meetings.

He joined Demeter Services Veterinaires in 2016 as an associate veterinarian servicing farms in Ontario, Manitoba and the Maritimes. He enjoys being challenged with new problems and helping people be successful in the swine industry. He currently lives in Cambridge with his wife, Meaghan, and son, Blake.
